

“PREVENTER PAPERS” – THE KEYS TO INJURY PREVENTION

The workplace sometimes exposes employees and volunteers to physical injury. Falling, stress and strain from lifting and carrying, injuries from working with tools and other equipment all are too common. Our “Preventer Papers” can help. If you can gather your employees and volunteers in small groups on a regular basis, it is a good opportunity to take five minutes and review a safety topic together. If a group session isn’t possible, you still can provide the papers to your people and tell them how important safety is to your operation and your mission. Either way, these documents can help you establish a culture of safety-consciousness, and personal responsibility for accident prevention. Our “Preventer Papers” on injury prevention, most of which are a single page, cover the following topics:

Avoiding common injuries

Reaching

Pushing and pulling

Housekeeping and storage

Dangerous furniture

Puncture wounds

Knives

Get a grip

Falls on stairs

Falls from vehicles

Fall prevention – general

Energy and machinery

Electrical safety – defective equipment

Don’t twist and shout

First aid

Cumulative trauma disorder

Chairs aren’t ladders

Carrying

Personal protective equipment

“PREVENTER PAPERS” – THE KEYS TO AUTO SAFETY

When your volunteers or employees get behind the wheel to drive on behalf of your organization, make sure they have the right keys – the key points to remember about safety, and how to prevent accidents. Our “Preventer Papers” can help. The papers, most of which are a single page, cover the following topics:

Attitude	Avoiding being struck from the rear
Defensive driving	Cold weather driving
General safety	Following
Patience	Speed
Pretrip checklist	Falls from vehicles
Driving rules	Accident response
Intersections	Space cushion
Right of way	Seat belts
Be prepared	School zones
Passing	Van safety
Being passed	What yellow means
Head-on collisions	Vehicle backing

If you would like any of these papers, just ask.

Any or all of our “Preventer Papers” on injury prevention and auto safety are available to nonprofit organizations at no charge. Please contact William Henry at 800.222.8920 or whenry@cimaworld.com, and indicate which papers you would like. He also can provide information about our unique program for insuring volunteers in case they are injured, injure someone else or damage someone’s property, or you can find that information at www.cimaworld.com.
